Panther Defeats Catamount To Win State Title

GERMAN SCHOOL TO OPEN AT BRISTOL UNDER DIRECTION OF DR. ERNST FEISE; WILL EMPHASIZE CONVERSATIONAL WORK

School Was Originally Established Here in 1915 As First Unit of Middlebury Modern Language Project; Closed in 1918 Due to War.

The German summer school of Middlebury College, closed since the world war, will be reestablished at Bristol, Vt., next July, according to the announcement of Pres. Paul D. Moody and Prof. Everett Skillings, dean of the school, this morning.

Dr. Ernst Feise, of Johns Hopkins, outstanding authority of German in this country, has accepted the appointment as director of the summer school. He will be assisted by a staff of native German instructors.

The school will be run on the same basis as the French and Spanish summer departments, with exclusive use of the foreign language outside as well as within classes, and opportunities offered for study of German literature under instructors provided for every ten students.

The new department of the Middlebury summer school is established at Bristol, twelve miles from the college, to promote entire segregation of students pursuing the foreign language. German houses will be used for dormitories, library, and class rooms, with the Bristol Inn as the social and dining center. Bristol was chosen as the site for the school because of the housing facilities offered there, and its unique natural location in the heart of the Green Mountains and in the lake district of Vermont, which will furnish ideal possibilities for recreation as well as study without city distractions.

The complete staff and list of courses are not yet announced, but classes in literature, composition, history, phonetics, German customs and institutions will be offered. All will be conducted in the German tongue. The work is designed for teachers of German, for those wishing training in the language for the purpose of foreign travel and study, and for advanced students requiring a ready knowledge for reading in the sciences, medicine and economics. Instruction will be in small groups of

1931 KALEIDOSCOPE MAKES FINAL REPORT

Pencils Presented to the Board and Final Report of Business Manager Accepted by Class.

Pencils inscribed with the words "1931 Kaleidoscope" were presented to members of the 1931 Kaleidoscope board by Richard H. Amerman, Editor-inChief, and Kenneth C. Parker, Business Manager, at a meeting of the board held Sunday afternoon at 4:30 in Warner Science building.

The staff of the book voted that if there were a balance in the treasury after all bills were paid, that pencils be given to members of the board instead of charms as has been the custom in the past yaers.

In reviewing the editorial aspect of the book, Mr. Amerman read excerpts from the review published in the May 7, 1930 Campus which emphasized the important changes and comparisons with previous books.

The financial report and statistics were then presented by Mr. Parker. The advertising and circulation figures surpassed by far the figures of previous years.

Both the editor and business manager expressed their hearty and sincere

CAROLA GOYA WILL GIVE DANCE RECITAL

Spanish Dancer Extraordinary to Appear at College Gymnasium Tomorrow Night.

Carola Goya will give a recital of Spanish dances under the auspices of the college entertainment course in the gymnasium at 8:15 tomorrow night.

One of the most brilliant young artists of the day, Senorita Goya's performances in New York and London during the past two seasons were sensational in their successes. Senorita Goya gave eighteen recitals in New York last year, a record surpassing that of any other dancer, and ended with a gala performance which crowded Carnegie hall to the doors.

Senorita Goya has brought to America the Spanish dance in all its essential purity. She presents the dance as Spain has known and loved it for generations. She also gives many creations of her own, arranged to the music of the modern Spanish composers De Lalla, Albaniz, and Granados, music which is too young to be traditional, but which interprets the soul of Spain in the mood of today.

Each dance is colorfully and picturesquely costumed, in fact, Senorita Goya's costumes in London and New York were of themselves something of a sensation. They are always in keeping with the mood and character of the dance. Her dances are all absolutely authentic in form and expression.

FROSH HOLD THEIR ANNUAL BIG P-RADE

The freshman p-rade, which is a customary part of the celebration on "Homecoming Day," was staged on Porter field between the halves of the Middlebury-Vermont football game Saturday. The wide variety of humorous carricatures and impersonations presented was a great source of amusement to the crowds who thronged to the Panther's home field to view the championship contest.

First prize, a Middlebury banner, was awarded to Richard Williams, wso was dressed as a Spanish dancer. Harold Watson and Thomas Noonan, as mother and child provoked shouts of mirth from the crowd and were given second prize. Third prize went to James Fish, who was made up as a Jew.

Frosh in all kinds of costumes gathered in front of the Middlebury grand stand as the first half of the game ended and during the intermission, paraded up and down the track giving the huge "Homecoming" crowd a chance for humorous laughs. As each character paraded in front of the stands, he brought forth applause and wise cracks.

HARDY LEADS MIDDLEBURY OFFENSE AS VERMONT TAKES WORST BEATING AT HANDS OF BLUE GRIDMEN SINCE 1900; SCORE 26-6

Beckmen Win Green Mountain Football Championship for the Second Consecutive Season Before "Homecoming" Crowd.

Coach Beck's fighting Middlebury grid team successfully defended its Vermont State Football Championship Saturday by defeating the University of Vermont by a 26 to 6 score. This win, coupled with the 18 to 0 victory over the Norwich Cadets earlier in the season, gives the Panther eleven the state title for the second consecutive year and a record of 70 points rolled up against 6 for the opponents during the championship games of this period.

The Middlebury outfit was a slight favorite before the game, due to comparative scores with Norwich, but mose people looked for a close battle as the Catamounts showed great power against the Cadets. The overwhelming defeat was somewhat of a surprise, although it does uphold the indications of the comparative scores against the Maroon.

SOPH HOP TICKET SALE PROGRESSING

Arrangements Now Complete for Thanksgiving Dance at Middlebury Inn.

One week remains in which tickets may be procured for Middlebury's Thanksgiving formal, the soph hop. The committee announces that the sale of tickets will continue until the evening of the dance, next Wednesday.

The final arrangements are now complete, and all indications show that the dance will be a successful affair presenting novelties never before seen in Middlebury. The Black Panther orchestra, composed of players who have been together for four years, and augmented by three musicians from Burlington, will supply the music which will last from 9 until 2. Harry Casey, noted trumpet player, will appear with the orchestra. The trombone and third saxaphone will also be played by men from Burlington. In the other full appearance of the orchestra this fall, at Repertory hall in Boston, it was met with much satisfaction. The band has many novelties prepared for the soph hop appearance, and the committee feels that those attending will be more than satisfied.

Plans for the decoration scheme of the Inn have been drawn up by the committee in charge of this phase of the work, Harry Wells, Ralph Huse, Doris Barnard, and Bretha MacKenzie. On Tuesday the actual work of decoration will begin.

FOOTBALL FINALE.

Last Saturday the football team satisfactorily proved its superiority over Vermont in winning the state championship by the largest score in nearly thirty years. Coming as it did after an unsuccessful season, this victory is especially commendable. As a general rule every football team has its share of hard luck, but when misfortune dogs continually, there is reason for despair. It is fitting tribute to a determination to arise and to win that the victory was so complete. To both squad and coaching staff a meed of praise is due for rising above disheartening circumstances to which most men would have become resigned as inevitable. Aside from the splendid conduct of the team, it may be observed that the spirit on the field was reflected in the student body, but in a different way.

For many years it was customarily believed that the conventional rah-rah, I'd-die-for-dear-old-Poobah spirit was a direct indication of one's loyalty to the college. Until quite recently men used to display this sort of spirit with a glorious smearing of mystic symbols prophesying the battle's outcome, or recalling to mind achievements of the past. Permanently to disfigure property with paint, tar, or whitewash was considered highly praiseworthy. If victory perchance rewarded these efforts then one would scale the heights of exuberance in a bout with the cup that cheers; if a defeat, a gloomily ceremonious drowning of sorrow would follow in the natural course of events.

Both before and after last Saturday's contest, however, this "spirit" was conspicuously noticeable by its absence. Students were given an unusual opportunity to raise cain, but their actual conduct would indicate a more mature and sensible outlook on what, after all, was only a game.

As opposed to this sentiment was the reaction of certain younger alumni. Released from the cares and responsibilities of business, they evidently found their freedom irksome and so proceeded to carry on in regular collegiate style, during which their spirit seemed to rise in ratio to spirits consumed. Among the student body, too, there was a comparative handful to whom the weekend's complete success depended on their making public spectacles of themselves. The vast majority of undergraduates, however, are to be commended on their more intelligently restrained attitude of mind, and it is to be hoped that this rational sort of college spirit will become firmly established.

LIBRARY COWBOY.

Quite contrary to the idea of student rationality implied in the above discourse stands the jovial fun-maker whose idea of amusement consists in bellowing into the library of an evening when others are hard at work on their studies. Apparently for want of anything else to do, or out of sheer thoughtless irresponsibility, this type of individual finds pleasure in making things miserable for everyone else. As usual, he belongs to that select coterie whose activities are extremely distasteful to the vast majority of students. It is suggested that in the future he consider the feelings of others before action is taken to have him impounded as a public nuisance.

"R. v. R." THE LIFE AND TIMES OF REMBRANDT VAN RIJN, by Hendrik Willem Van Loon. New York, Horace Liveright, $5.00.

Disguised as an Amsterdam doctor, Mr. Van Loon has sneaked up on Rembrandt and his times and has, to our way of thinking, given us an excellent picture of the man who was a high priest of art and at the same time a naive, almost childlike person.

Through the 570 pages of the book, we follow the baffled dissapointing life of the master which ended in the ignomy of burial in an unknown grave.

But there is a great deal more to the book than a mere biography of one great man: here is a history of the Dutch people in the XVII century at the time when Holland had reached her highwater mark economically, politically, and culturally, the time when she was a great deal more than a land of dykes and tulip bulbs. For this alone, the book is worth reading.

The only weakness in the book, if such it may be called, is the tendency of the author to now and again nearly lose sight of his subject while concentrating on the events of the day. On second thought, this may not be a vice, but rather a virtue, for Rembrandt never employed a director of public relations to keep his name before the public, he never received the key to any city, nor did his picture appear in the Times rotogravure section each week. Perhaps showing that he really was a genius.

Alex Munthe, the author of "SAN MICHELE" has completed another book of his memoirs called "Memories and Vagaries" which was published yesterday. If this book is as interesting as was "San Michele" we will be forced to admit that M. Munthe has had more experiences than any other two men we have heard of, or that he is gifted with an excellent imagination.

George Jean Nathan has written a book of essays "THE TESTAMENT OF A CRITIC" which Knopf will publish in a few weeks. For the publishers sake, we trust no literary critic will treat Nathan's book as G. J. N. treats the average play.

There was a very interesting article on Sinclair Lewis in the magazine section of the New York Times, Sunday. In it Mr. Lewis tells of the changes in BABBITT and MAIN STREET, but says they still, and always will exist. Mr. Lewis also says he is learning to speak Swedish so that he may be able to make reply in that language when he is awarded the Nobel prize late in the winter or early next spring at Stockholm.

George Fort Milton's "THE AGE OF HATE: ANDREW JOHNSON AND THE RADICALS" is scheduled for publication today by Coward McCann. Mr. Milton is editor of the Chattanooga News.

Shreds and Patches

Thoughts on the Saturday's game: The linesman who insisted on playing hop scotch all the way across the field while measuring for first downs. The K. D. R. parking racket — we see they promised to watch the cars, but did they help them out of the mire after the game? Wonder what a ball carrier thinks when he steps in a water bucket on the side-lines. The new band formation with the right end of the line three yards ahead of the left. Good music, though. The coed who cheered for Duffield instead of Duffany. For once Middlebury mud done another team dirt. Oh, yes, we nearly forgot Ed Lockwood disguised as a Norwich cadet.

Need we say we enjoyed the exhibition on Porter field Saturday, as Mr. Gimbel would say, "twas neat but not gaudy".

We're still baffled by those Burlington two way busses. You can never tell which way they-re headed. Keeping out of their way is worse than trying to dodge an Austin.

Somehow, a number of the under-graduates have gotten the idea that the forth-coming play "Joint Owners in Spain" has something to do with Iberian speakeasies.

Chingagook and Deerslayer went ahunting and the Chi Psis are enjoying fresh venison. We see that a farmer in Starksboro has reported the disappearance of a Jersey heifer.

Local paint dealers are bemoaning the new Middlebury spirit. They claim that it has resulted in their being overstocked in black, green, and red paint.

The most startling feature of the frosh p-rade Saturday was its glaring lack of originality though we must admit the organ grinder and the monk wasn't so awful despite the pun involved.

According to the Herald Tribune (N. Y. C. news sheet) the feature "Calvin Coolidge Says" is studied daily by several high school history classes. Yeah, and there may be some English class in the same school which offers an intensive study in the works of Eleanor H. Porter and Zane Gray.

Not only is this an open season on deer, but it seems to be one on stags also.

New York has introduced a unique system for aiding unemployment. Any gentlemen out of work may report at the city hall, or some other equally silly place, where he is given a box of apples. He hawks these on the street and with the proceeds therefrom is able to buy another box which he sells and keeps the profits. Evidentally the N'Yoikers believe in the slogan "An apple a day keeps the doctor away". Now their only problem is to find jobs for the medics whom the apple venders will naturally put out of business.

Football season having ended, the students can now settle down and concentrate for a long, long time, as the soph hop is over a week away.

Perhaps the best thing in the whole Vermont game was the sight of Prexy coming around the track with the cane. That's one of the real advantages of being a college president.

While excavating in that bunker below the ninth fairway last week we discovered what we at first thought was a part of the skeleton of a brontosaurus. We showed it to the local paleontologists who believe that it is merely the head of the driver of some unfortunate golfer who entombed himself there circa. 1846.

COMMUNICATION

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CAMPUS:

May I utilize your columns to make an appeal to the alumni for assistance in securing concerts for the Glee club this year? Mr. Richard Fear, the manager, is experiencing some difficulty in arranging a schedule. Many prospects which seemed bright have since disappointed us. We have several good concerts already contracted for, but we need more. In the second week of February the Glee club will make a tour of central New York; in the last week of February a tour of New England and in the third week of March a tour of New York and New Jersey. We need concerts on each of these trips. It is difficult for the manager to secure appearances without the cooperation of the alumni. The Glee club would appreciate it thoroughly if any alumni who can give any information which will lead to the securing of concerts will do so. The club is earnestly working to advertise Middlebury College. We need your help. Any communications may be sent to Mr. Richard Fear, manager.

(Signed)
H. G. OWEN.

TO THE EDITOR OF THE CAMPUS:

The Blue Key society during the recent football season greatly aided in the entertaining of visiting teams. The society had its representatives meet the visitors on their arrival and constantly had a man with the manager of the visiting team to help with the many problems that arise in preparing a football team for play. In doing this they not only created a favorable impression of Middlebury but also simplified matters for the Middlebury managers during their busiest of busy times.

In the past Middlebury has not had such an active and efficient organization in caring for visitors. Parallels to the Blue Key courtesy were found at Columbia university, Williams college and Rensselaer Poly. Tech. during the past season. Invariably where there were delegates to aid us, we had a more enjoyable stay, less confusion and better understandings.

The football management wishes to take this opportunity to thank Blue Key for their ready cooperation and services at the home games during the recent season.

(Signed)
RICHARD E. McGRAW, manager.
WILLIAM HORR, asst. manager.

"KEEP EARS OPEN AND MOUTH SHUT"

Warden B. Bell Discusses the Acceptance of Religious Truths at Vespers.

Warden B. I. Bell at vespers Sunday, November 16, took as his text "Let every man be swift to hear but slow to speak."

In continuing, he said, "This is an appropriate maxim for those engaged in scholastic pursuits. To recognize the vastness of what he does not know is the sign of the educated person. He learns from past knowledge and present experiments about the complexity o fthe universe and the complexity of himself. He is wary of chatter about things of which he does not know. The business of a college training is to teach one to keep his mouth closed to all except truth. Searching for caution in speech is a problem in scientific and spiritual matters.

"A scientist is cautious about knowledge. Today he is singularly willing to listen to man's ideas courteously"

W. A. A. HOCKEY ENDS WITH 1932 AHEAD

Junior Class Wins Championship and Sophomores Take Second Place in Contest.

The women's hockey season ended Thursday with the junior team holding the championship. The members of the class of '32 have earned their numerals, for they have been outstanding during the entire season, in fine teamwork and excellent individual playing. All their victories have been so decisive that there has been no question of their superiority at any time.

The only upset of the season was the poor showing of the sophomores, last year's champions. The team seemed a bit over-confident at the beginning of the season and after a poor start could not regain its previous form. The sophs succeeded with difficulty in clinching second place and at no time seriously threatened the juniors.

The senior team was handicapped by the loss of five of their best players who have been their strength in the preceding three years. Bland, Gardner, Eliot, Foote, and McNulty, who have featured among '31's stars, were lacking in the hockey line-up. Bland and Foote, who are no longer in the class, and Eliot were vital to the strength of the senior attack. McNulty, in the backfield, was twice chosen as All-Midd center-half, and Gardner, who was a strong part of the defense, was unable to take active part in the games due to an injury of the knee sustained in basketball last winter.

However, their team fought well and featured in some of the closest games of the season. The freshman team was inexperienced and did not become well organized until the end of the season. They improved steadily with each game they played and show promise of becoming a powerful team next year.

Prospects are bright for a very close race for the hockey championship in 1931. If the sophomores recover their championship form and if the freshmen continue to improve, the juniors will find their honors threatened. It may prove to be an even more exciting series than the one just ended.

The final tally of games won and lost is as follows:

Team	Won	Lost	Tie
Juniors	6	0	0
Sophomores	3	2	1
Freshmen	2	4	0
Seniors	0	5	1

Seniors 0, Sophomores 0.

The final contest of the hockey season between the seniors and sophomores resulted in a no score game, last Wednesday afternoon.

The play was slow throughout. The sophomores, disappointed in the battle for the championship, were decidedly off form. The seniors did not attempt to take advantage of this weakness and seemed content merely to keep pace with their opponents.

The line-up follows:

	Seniors	Sophomores
LW	Atwood	Wilder
LI	Kellogg	Spencer
CF	Morrison	Bossert
RI	Dundas	Sitterly
RW	Lewis	Wheaton
LH	Hosley	Nodding
CH	Hasseltine	Updyke
RH	Wellman	M. Omwake
LF	Hough	Davis
RF	Hagen	Whittier
G	Cole	Lewthwaite

Substitutions: Seniors—March for Hough, Simmons for Atwood; Sophomores: Markarian for Updyke, Updyke for Wilder, Wilder for Omwake, Sheldon for Davis, Foster for Sitterly.

Timer — Griffin; scorer — McNeely; time—15 minute halves.

ALUMNI NOTES

Dr. John M. Thomas Accepts Chairmanship

Dr. John M. Thomas, Middlebury graduate in the class of 1890, and thirteen years president of the college, has been named by Governor Weeks, as chairman of a general state committee which is to cope with any emergencies which may arise from unemployment.

Press Club Tryouts Will Have New Schedule Soon

The number of tryouts for the press club has increased to so large a number that even the idea of regular assignments each week has grown obsolete. To overcome this, a new assignment sheet has been made up, and will go into use beginning Monday afternoon, November 17. This sheet is similar to the one in present use, except that instead of covering only one week, assignments are given for two weeks. By this system, all tryouts will have an equal chance to put in time toward membership.

Since the press club work began this fall, thirty-seven tryouts have worked nearly two hundred hours, an average of better than 5.4 hours for each tryout. Fall elections will be held soon and it is expected that by the time several men and women will have fulfilled the requirements which are for membership, twenty hours of work at the club room and three sessions in charge. Tryouts are again reminded that they always have the privilege of attending the lectures given the CAMPUS tryouts, held at 4:30 p. m. each Thursday.

Hiking Club Has Outdoor Supper.

The members of the hiking club enjoyed an outdoor supper at college park, Friday evening, November 7. About fifteen members made the trip. Elsie Waterman '32, head of hiking, was in charge.

Campaign for Relief of Unemployed Successful

The response of the student body to the appeal made by a local benevolence organization to relieve the distress caused by the present unemployment situation has been more than satisfactory.

The Waubanakees have canvassed the men's college and have collected a large quantity of old clothes. The women's side of the hill has not yet contributed its quota but the M. C. A. cabinet expects to finish the work this week.

EQUALLY genuine is the response of smokers to Chesterfield's satisfying goodness, its wholesome smoothness.

HARDY LEADS MIDDLEBURY OFFENSE IN HANDING VERMONT A BEATING

Vermont had but one opportunity to score until late in the game and that chance was thrown away by a fumble. A passing attack against the Blue substitutes gave the Cats their only tally, while the Middlebury team gained yardage wholesale and scored in every period except the first. Although the score was somewhat higher, the game was not as one-sided as the Norwich encounter. There was no question as to which was the superior team, but there was no semblance of the utter rout of the opponents as was the case in the contest at Northfield.

Vermont was powerless against the Panther defense until late in the game, after Coach Beck had sent in his substitutes. On the other hand, the Blue offense functioned with great success. Middlebury gained more ground than the Catamounts by a wide margin. The Panther team registered 14 first downs against 5 for the Green and Gold outfit. Vermont did not gain a single first down until the third quarter and made all but one against the second team. Also, whereas the Blue and White eleven made their first downs on straight football, the Vermonters made all of theirs via the air route. Middlebury flashed a great passing game on two occasions and scored each time.

While the entire Panther team played great football and easily deserves all the credit that can be given, Hardy was the outstanding player of the game. The Middlebury fullback played his last contest in a Blue uniform and sang his swan song in brilliant style. Time and again, the crowd was brought to its feet as Hardy tore through the Vermont team for long gains. His 50 yard run down the sidelines to a score, after intercepting a Vermont forward pass in the third period, was the outstanding play of the game. On this jaunt, interference cut down three Vermont men, but Hardy had to slip by three more without any help, and that he was equal to the occasion is evidenced by the score. Hardy's kicking was very good under the conditions. His boot from behind his own goal line at the start of the third period traveled over 70 yards.

A huge crowd of alumni was on hand for the game as Middlebury was celebrating "Homecoming Day" and, as was the case last year, "Homecoming" was a great success. Except for the rain, the day was perfect as the Middlebury rooters could cheer for three victorious teams. After the varsity and freshmen cross-country teams had won over Vermont in the morning, the football eleven completed the business with one of the worst beatings a Middlebury grid team has ever given the Catamounts.

The crowds started to congregate an hour or so before the contest and by game time there was nearly a full house. Rain dampened the enthusiasm somewhat, but when Jupe Pluvius relented and stopped the showers after the first period, the crowd livened up and was as noisy and gay as any crowd could be. There was not as much color in evidence as is sometimes the case, but that can be blamed entirely upon the weather. The Middlebury band made a striking appearance as they marched up the field before the contest began.

After the usual preliminaries, the game got under way with Huntington kicking off to Tom Collins. There was little excitement during the first period although Tom Collins pulled the Roy Riegels trick by taking a loose ball on his own 45 yard line after a Middlebury man had touched it trying to down a punt and running over his own goal line. There was no count to this run as the punt was considered downed when the Panther man touched it and so it was Vermont's ball on the 48 yard line. Later in the period Middlebury lost the ball on the Blue 25 yard line on a penalty, but a Vermont fumble helped this situation and allowed Hardy to kick out of danger.

The Panther team started its offense early in the second quarter after having been hampered by rain during the first canto. When the rain let up, the Middlebury attack began. Running plays, with Hardy featuring, carried the ball to within scoring distance and then from a fake place kick formation, Eddie Markowski tossed a nice pass to Thrasher over the goal line for the first score. Huntington added the extra point as the crowd went wild. With a lead to work on, the Panther team got better and better and pushed the Catamounts all over the lot.

Between the halves, the two colleges exchanged musical courtesy as is the custom. The Middlebury band formed U. V. M. in front of the Vermont stands and played the upstaters' alma mater. The Green and Gold's musicians then formed MIDD in front of the Panther cheering section and played "Gamaliel Painter's Cane". The two bands then joined in a march which was especially impressive. The frosh also had their P-Rade during the intermission.

Hardy climaxed his scintillating playing by snatching a Vermont forward pass out of the air at midfield near the beginning of the third period and scampering 50 yards for the second Blue touchdown. This run was the high spot of the contest and was the greatest single contribution of Hardy's brilliant afternoon. Foote's place kick was wide, but the score was 13 to 0.

Shortly after the kickoff following this touchdown Vermont made its initial first down of the contest on a pass from Winant to Parks, but the Cats could not continue the advance and Middlebury started another attack which carried the ball 54 yards by straight football with a double reverse featuring the offense. When the running attack failed to carry the ball over the goal line from a yard outside, Markowski dropped back and tossed another forward pass which Thrasher snatched out of the ozone for the third touchdown. Huntington added the extra point with a pretty drop kick, just as the period ended.

The fourth quarter saw the Middlebury backfield again driving over half the length of the field for the fourth tally. Plunges through the tackles and a double reverse carried the ball to the Vermont six yard line and then "Albie" Hoyle circled wide around his left end for the score. Hoyle dodged two tacklers and straight armed another to slip over the line standing up. Markowski's drop kick was wide, but with the score 26 to 0 ,one point more or less meant little.

With Coach Beck sending in substitutes in droves, the Vermont offense began to pick up. The Panther seconds held fairly well against the running attack, but could not cope with the passing game. Tom Collins tossed passes to Wood and Bedell for four straight first downs and then when the running attack was smashed up on the goal line, Collins passed to Bove for the touchdown. Collins failed to add the extra point. The Vermont stands went wild over this lone touchdown and seemed to derive much comfort from the fact

MIDDLEBURY CROSS COUNTRY TEAM TAKES STATE CHAMPIONSHIP

Wilder of Vermont Places First in Slow Time of 17 Min. 17 Sec.

SECOND PLACE A TIE AS BLUE WINS 25-30

Ingersoll and Kilburn Give Spectators Thrill.

Middlebury started off a very successful day Saturday when the cross country team won the state title by defeating Vermont, 25-30. Wilder, of Vermont, placed first over the three mile course in the comparatively slow time of 17 minutes and 17 seconds. Each team placed five men among the first ten, but the race was won by three Middlebury men coming in together in a blanket finish.

Perhaps the most spectacular part of the race, was when Ingersoll, of Middlebury, and Kilburn, of Vermont, fought it out for thirteenth place. For approximately one hundreds yards, these two men ran neck and neck. As they drew near the finish line, both put on an extra spurt and it was a question only of which one would break first. Kilburn lost his stride within yards of the line and Ingersoll beat him out with less than a yard to spare.

Perrin, Harwood, and Cox of Middlebury came in abreast for second, third and fourth positions and Pratt followed in sixth place. Campbell, running his first race for Middlebury, placed tenth. The summary:

1, Wilder, (V)	9, Hadley, (V)
2, Perrin, (M)	10, Campbell, (M)

FRESHMEN HARRIERS BEAT KITTENS 25-30

Vermont Takes First Two Places But Middlebury Team Finishes Strong to Win Three Mile Race.

Middlebury won its second state championship Saturday when the freshman harriers defeated the Vermont frosh. The race was run over the three mile course and was won by Shippee, of Vermont, in the time of 17 minutes, 19½ seconds, only two and one half seconds slowed than the varsity time. The score was the same as that of the varsity race, 25-30, in favor of Middlebury.

Vermont men placed first and second, Woodruff of Vermont taking second by a thrilling spurt. As he rounded the last curve with about five hundred feet to go to the finish, there were two Middlebury men leading him by about twenty-five yards. Woodruff staged a tremendous sprint, passed them both, and came in second with a lead of about twenty yards over the Middlebury men.

The next five men were Middlebury runners, the first two finishing some distance apart and the next three coming in abreast. After them came six more Vermont men, but the race was already won by the five who placed from third to seventh inclusive.

The summary:

1, Shippee, (V)	10, Ball, (V)
2, Woodruff, (V)	11, Lunna, (V)

PLANS TO FURTHER DEBATE ANNOUNCED BY HONOR SOCIETY

Tau Kappa Alpha to Sponsor Exhibition Contests Thruout State.

WILL ALSO MANAGE THE COED DEBATE

Faculty Members to Train Teams; T. K. A. Judges for High Schools.

The sponsorship of all debates and debating activity, falling outside the regular schedule of men's and women's varsity contests, was assumed by the Middlebury chapter of Tau Kappa Alpha, national honorary forensic fraternity, at a meeting held in Warner Hemicycle Friday evening.

The plan as worked out by the chapter president with the assistance of the administration, provides for cooperation in entertaining visiting debate teams; and the furnishing of Tau Kappa Alpha judges for high school debates; and the chapter's management of the annual men's-women's college debate, interclass debates, and exhibition debates before civic and community organizations thruout the state. Negotiations are already pending for one such contest.

Tau Kappa Alpha voted to stage a banquet for the visiting debaters of the Scottish universities' union at the Middlebury Inn immediately preceding the contest in Mead Chapel. It is felt that this occasion will contribute to the dignity of their reception, and will add to the benefits derived from their visit by the local debaters.

The furnishing of judges for high school debates places the promotional work of the local chapter on a par with that of leading branches of the fraternity thruout the country. The policy has been worked out with great success by Tau Kappa Alpha at Rutgers university. The plan as it will be put into use here provides that the members of the fraternity shall be available for judging services, the only stipulation being that the schools employing Tau Kappa Alpha judges shall pay their expenses. The benefits of the plan are threefold. The judges get experience in the evaluation of debating arguments; the schools get judges who have had training and experience in forensic fields; and the reputation of Middlebury debating and Tau Kappa Alpha is carried to the secondary schools of the state.

The debates to be sponsored and managed by Tau Kappa Alpha include all contests outside of the regular schedule of intercollegiate competition for men's and women's teams handled and financed by the college. Last year's debate between the men's team and the coeds, for which all arrangements and preparations were handled by the respective managers, and the debate before the Grange, similiarly operated, are examples of the field into which Tau Kappa Alpha has entered. It is expected that several teams selected by the chapter from both members and non-members, and coached by the faculty men in Tau Kappa Alpha, will appear before various organizations in Vermont.

The chapter announces that arrangements are now being concluded for the appearance of a Middlebury team in Milton, where a trio of speakers, a minister, a lawyer, and a school principal, will constitute the opposition.

"MIDDLEBURIANS" PLAY FOR 400.

Over two hundred couples attended the informal dance held in the McCullough gymnasium after the Vermont game Saturday.

Music was furnished by the new college orchestra, the "Middleburians", a ten piece combination managed by Robert G. Spencer '31. Vocal numbers and slow rhythmic syncopation were featured by the orchestra. The performance of the group was outstanding in its initial appearance.

Chaperons were Prof. H. G. Owen, Miss Rose Martin, and Mr. and Mrs. Edgar J. Wiley.

eight or ten. At registration all entrants will pledge themselves to speak no language but German. The extra-curricular program will include social gatherings, observation of continental fetes, dramatics, lectures and readings by men outstanding in the field of literature, and German religious services.

The German school at Middlebury was founded in 1915, as the pioneer of the segregated one-language summer schools in American colleges. It was discontinued in 1918 when the teaching of German in High schools was given up, due to the war. Its success was attested by the formation of sister schools of French in 1916 and Spanish in 1917. Bulletins of the school, now being published will be announced in December.

Permanent Training Rules.

The W. A. A. council has adopted the same training rules that were followed during the hockey season, as the permanent rules for all W. A. A. sports offering points, either major or minor. This will include hockey, basketball, baseball, tennis, volleyball, and archery.

The council has also ruled that hereafter individuals must see that their points for sports are recorded with the vice president of W. A. A. at the close of respective seasons. Otherwise all errors and ommissions in records will stand. A date will be set at the close of each season as a deadline after which points may not be checked up.

The council passed on three names for the "M" club sweater award.

A Tempo Hears Organ Music.

The use of the organ was explained at the meeting of the A Tempo club held last night in Mead Memorial chapel. Dorothy Johnson '31, told the members of the club about the different parts of the instrument. Sara Harnden '32, played a postlude, Jeanette Burgess '32, a piece illustrating orchestral parts, and Dorothy Johnson another selection. To show the organ as an accompaniment Cleone Ford '32, played while Betty Pease '31, sang.

PROFESSOR WRIGHT READS FROM BROWN

Selects High Spots of Favorite Author to Stimulate Appreciation and Further Reading of Manx Poet.

Dr. Charles Baker Wright, professor emertius of rhetoric and English literature, presided at the reading given Friday, November 14, at 4:30, in the Abernethy room of the library.

In his introduction, Professor Wright stated that a lecture should be, in the literal sense of the word, a reading, and the quality of the poet should be recognized in his poems.

Passages from the "Fo'c's'le Yarns" and several lyrical poems constituted the body of the lecture. Doctor Wright illustrated by his selections that the narratives of T. E. Brown are a "gallery of Manx life." He compared them to the dramatic monologues of Robert Browning in their form. The lyrics prove the poet's caliber and a poem like "The Prayers" ought to make the reader "thank God for poets." Professor Wright observed that the stimulus of an audience and a sympathetic atmosphere lend to the full appreciation of an author, and often disappointment replaces enthusiasm upon rereading the poems alone.

In concluding, Doctor Wright called T. E. Brown "a poet philosopher, and great hearted lover, the real (Tom Baynes) of his poems;" and in the words of W. E. Henley "a soul that has found the secret." His contribution to Victorian literature and to his people is a distinctive one.

This second of the series of seven readings to be given during the year was well attended by the college students. The speaker for the next reading, which will be given December 12, has not yet been announced.

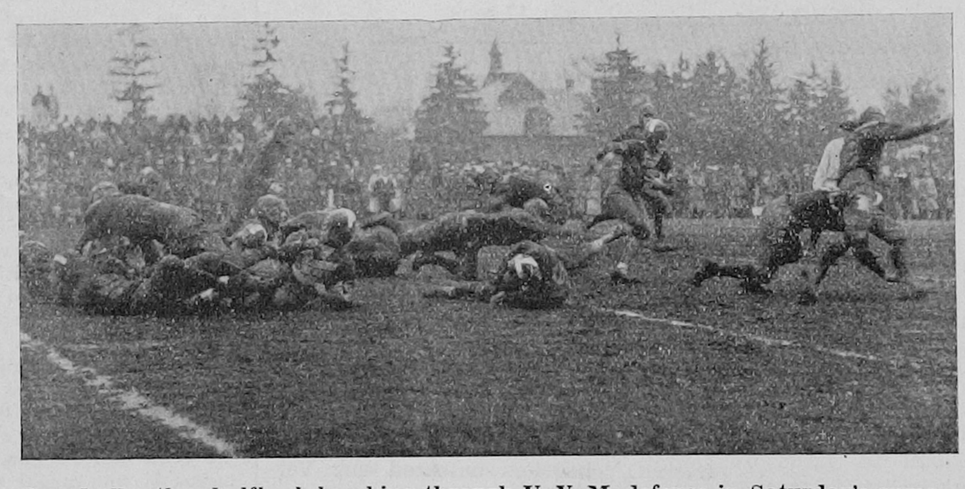
HOYLE GAINING AGAINST VERMONT



Speedy Panther halfback breaking through U. V. M. defense in Saturday's game.

Hardy Leads Middlebury to Win Over Vermont

that the Cat eleven had succeeded in beating the Panther second team 6 to 0 after being swamped by the regulars 26 to 0.

In the closing minutes of the game, the Blue and White seconds made two first downs and had the ball on the Vermont 20 yard line with a score in sight when the whistle blew. From first to last, the game was all Middlebury and from the start of the second period until the closing whistle the Blue team was always threatening.

The highlight of the Vermont showing was the passing game of the last few minutes. Tom Collins to Wood, Bedell and Bove was a potent combination against the Panther seconds. The Middlebury team played wonderful ball and took advantage of everything. There were but two fumbles during the game, both by Vermont, and both were recovered by Middlebury. Hardy was the most brilliant star in the Blue constellation, but he was ably supported by the rest of the team. Markowski played the best game of his career while Hoyle and Bakeman also played great ball. Thrasher was outstanding in the line and clearly showed why he is the best end in the state. Nelson played a great game at center, while Captain Perry and Huntington were immovable on the defense and opened wide holes for the backs on the offense. Duffany and Brown cared for the guard positions in great shape.
